Verbal Description

Verbal Description This is the proximal end of a pointed tool, probably an awl. The point itself is broken, as is the opposite end. The piece was made from a medium sized long bone, as attested by the side-to-side curvature; there is no longitudinal curvature. The thickest part of the bone is 0.31 cm. One side ^{edge} has more of a lip than the other, which is hard to convey in the drawing. The piece is very smooth and glossy for 0.82 cm below the broken tip, as are both finished edges.
